BETTA KIT – not only for fighting fish!

AQUAEL is proud to announce another novelty product. The BETTA KIT is intended for keeping a single male fighting fish (Betta splendens). The kit includes a miniature tank, made entirely of plastic, and a lid.

The BETTA KIT constitutes a great alternative to the conventional fish bowls you are likely to be offered in a pet shop when buying fighting fish. Unlike spherical fish bowls, the rectangular shape of the BETTA KIT tank does not cause confusion and disorientation in fish and guarantees a proper quality of life. Thanks to the transparent walls, you can freely observe the interior of the tank. The openwork plastic lid ensures the required level of gas interchange (like other labyrinth fish, fighting fish breathe air from the surface of the water); prevents the fish from accidentally jumping out of the tank; and helps to maintain proper air temperature just above the water surface (cold air may cause catarrhal diseases of the fish's respiratory system). The aquarium kit can be easily carried thanks to the handy, ergonomically designed handle.

Despite its small size, BETTA KIT offers quite enough space for a single male fighting fish. You can furnish the tank with aquarium gravel, decorations, and small plants, e.g. mosses or miniature varieties of anubias.

BETTA KIT is also suitable for keeping shrimp, snails, and other aquatic invertebrates. Without water, the tank can also be used for keeping insects and for carrying invertebrates and small pet mammals (hamsters, mice) e.g. during visits to the vet.
